TUNE OF: "MEMORIES"

VERSE I

'Round me at twilight come stealing
Memories of days that are gone,
Dreams of the old days revealing,
Memories of life's golden dawn.

VERSE II

Sunlight may teach me forgetting,
Noonlight, brings thoughts that are new,
Twilight brings sighs of regretting,
Moonlight brings sweet dreams of you.

CHORUS

Memories, memories, of dear old high school days,
Though the years may come and go, we'll think of you always;
Childhood days, wildwood days, days we love so dear,
Though they'll soon be gone, they'll linger on
In our beautiful memories.

Class Prophecy

Book reports due in another day and no book read! That's the problem that confronted me one bleak December day. This would never do, perhaps there was a book in the library I had overlooked. Nothing like trying, so once more I scanned row after row of familiar books. Same thing! I had read everyone. My heart began to sink in despair. Oh! where would I ever get a book to read? Just then I happened to see a strange book back in a corner, covered with dust. Could it be that I had overlooked one? Eagerly I reached out for it. Surely this aged and yellow book couldn't contain anything of interest.

After considerable difficulty I was able to discern the title, "The Book of Fates." Wondering, I hurriedly but carefully began to scan the pages. Wonder of wonders! The names were familiar. Quickly I glanced back at the title. Sure enough, there it was, "The Book of Fates," and beneath it in scarcely legible letters was "Prophecy for the Senior Class of 1932."

This was indeed interesting! I found a nice cozy spot and went to reading with a will. There in black and white was the future of myself and classmates.

Harold Beal's name was the first to catch my eye. After glancing over the page I found that Beany would become the pastor of the U. B. Church in Sterling. He would never marry, being disappointed in love when but a youth.

Turning the page my eye fell upon a medal bearing the inscription: "Awarded to the world's champion whisker rubber," and sure enough, there beneath it was the name "Everett Miracle." I wasn't in the least surprised when I read this because I knew that our class president would make a name for himself.

My attention was next centered upon Alice Bombarger's future. I found that "Red" was to become a radio singer broadcasting over the Columbia Network. Of course Alice would be married, not once but several times. These temperamental musicians.

The next name I saw was that of Otis Smith. I could hardly believe my eyes! I looked again to make sure. No mistake about it. Otis was to go to Hollywood to act as a double for Clark Gable. Odey certainly had a surprise in store for the rest of his classmates.

Reading page after page I learned that Elmer Johnson would win the Nobel prize for short stories in 1945 and that his old side-kick, Russell Rhoads, would marry and settle in the old home town. Louie would be the manager of the Creston Basket Factory.

I was rather surprised to find that Lois Miller and Kathryn Benjamin would form a business partnership. They were to be the manufacturers of a new and improved M & B mousetrap, guaranteeing a sure and painless death to all mice. These two girls would never marry but would live together with their cats and canaries and maybe a dog. Who knows?

When I had recovered from this shock I was ready to read on. Glancing over the next page I saw that Arlene Carbaugh would become a nurse. So Arlene's dream was to come true. But I found a surprise for her too. She would marry a well known physician and live happily for the rest of her life.

Lillian Kirschner would travel on the RKO circuit as a concert pianist. She would marry a well known orchestra leader and when not making tours, they will live in New York. Mildred Snyder, after graduating from a well known college would become an English teacher in Creston High School.

Turning the page I found that her pal, Eleanor Giffen, was to teach music in the Wooster Conservatory of Music. She would never marry as she would prefer a musical career.

The next name to catch my eye was Milton Metz's. I found that Milton would be a very successful farmer and would live near Creston. Of course he would be happily married.

I turned the page and found, to my surprise and amusement, that Glenn Hartzler was to be an aviator, known the world over for his daring feats. He would be known as "Ace" Hartzler. I also found that Howard Fulton, the parachute jumper, would work with him and they would go about the country supplying thrills for the people. Glenn it seemed would be married several times, being quite a lady's man, but Howard, the more steady type, would remain faithful to his high school romance.

Reading on I found that Robert Myers, well known auto racer, known as "Speedy" Myers, would set a new speed record for Ford cars and make a name for himself in the Halls of Fame.

Freeda Edington, a Metropolitan Opera singer, would make a tour over the United States. Freeda would marry in her later years and retire from public life.

On the next page I found that Austin Ebie would publish a new series of Jesse James books complete in ten volumes, and that Kathryn would be a stenographer.

La Vonne Steele would be married soon after graduation and settle in Cuyahoga Falls. Oh yes! and George Hoffman would be a radio announcer, Graham McNamee's most dangerous competitor. Of course George would marry and settle in New York.

And myself? I was very glad to find that I would be a shorthand and typing teacher in good old Alma Mater.

I looked from my book and quickly glanced at my watch. Four o'clock! and I had been reading all afternoon and still no book report.

Class History

One day as I was sitting by the fire reading I fell to dreaming. Oh, how I wished I was back in good old C. H. S. We had such good times and "I wonder if I can think of all the things that we did during the four years of high school life?" I asked myself. I can remember of ten that started together in the first grade and finished high school together.

When we entered high school together we had forty-one in our class. I remember clearly when we entered the study hall amid much cheering and clapping which made us feel very proud. About the first thing we did was to elect officers. Howard Fulton was chosen to lead the group through the first year.

Old Rose and Silver were chosen as our class colors.

In athletics we were represented by Everett Miracle, Donald Stutzman, Howard Fulton, Kathryn Benjamin and Martha Repp. We got through the first year successfully due to the great help of our advisor, Miss Alsdorf.

In our Sophomore year Howard Fulton was again chosen as President, and Mrs. McIlvaine proved a capable advisor. In basketball we were represented by the same ones in addition to Elmer Johnson, Milton Metz, Russell Rhodes, Harold Longfellow, Glenn Maiden, and Gail Long. In baseball Everett, Donald, and Robert. Howard, Robert, George and I represented our class in the orchestra.

Another summer passed very quickly and we went back to school as Juniors with seats between the Sophomores and Seniors. Everett was elected president, Kathryn, vice president; Chlora, treasurer; and myself secretary. The same ones that represented us as Sophomores in basketball represented us as Juniors, with the exception of the girls. Many events happened in this year. We had the opportunity to publish the "Monday Blues," the high school paper. We were the first to use the new mimeograph, a great help in our work. We gave the play, "The Two Brides," and it was a success. Then in May we gave the Seniors a banquet at the Darby Joan Tea Room at Leroy. That closed our third year in high school. Mrs. McIlvaine was again our helpful advisor.

As another year began we realized we had many responsibilities. The greatest one was setting examples for the younger children and did we? I guess we did. We elected officers and Everett was president, I was vice president, Mildred Snyder, treasurer, and Eleanor Giffen, secretary. In November we gave our play, "Sound Your Horn," to two large and appreciative audiences. The same people represented us in basketball and music. There were also quite a few from our class in the glee club. Those in the orchestra and in the glee club took part in the all Wayne County Musicale at Wooster. Lillian Kirschner was given third place in the County Declamation Contest.

THE ANNUAL

Elmer Johnson's short story was chosen to be sent in to the County. We cannot give any results as yet. Robert, Freeda, Chlora, and myself were on the debate team.

We had many enjoyable parties this year, especially the one held at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Frey at Wooster.

The task of publishing the annual fell into our hands and we couldn't have gotten along without the excellent help of our class advisor, Mr. Frey.

The Junior-Senior Banquet, Baccalaureate, and Commencement brought our high school career to a close. With some falling by the wayside and others coming in, twenty members had reached the top and were proud and happy to have accomplished such a goal.

Then let's all be good pals together,
That's the spirit that should fill the air;
Let's smile in all sorts of weather,
Treat everybody fair and square.

Remember—
We should be thankful to be here—
To err is human, to forgive, divine,
So let's all be good pals together—
For when we're gone, we're gone a long, long time.

Junior Class History

Dear Friends:

I know you want to hear about our class—the famous class of "'33"—so I will try to give you just a few facts as to our history.

We entered high school in September 1929. Imagine forty-seven green freshies wandering through the halls! And how we hated those names of "green" and "freshie." Evelyn Wright was our president and for class advisor we elected Miss Studer who was a faithful help in all our difficulties.

Everyone settled down to hard study which was interrupted occasionally by welcomed vacations. We succeeded in mastering the hated exams and thus were raised to the counted name of Sophomore.

The beginning of our Sophomore year is remembered because of the delightful party given us by the Seniors at Shaw's Woods. To show our gratitude we gave them a return party at Hawk's Woods. This second year our class was efficiently presided over by Carl Pinkley with the assistance of Miss Alsdorf as advisor.

Melbourne Ecker brought glory to our class by distinguishing himself on the debate team.

The year of study, friendliness, and activity passed at last and now we have gained the higher rank of Juniors. We occupy the center section of study hall and fill up quite a good-sized space as we have a membership of forty-one. Everything started off fine this year and "everybody's happy." Bob Schlegel is president and Miss McIlvaine is class advisor.

We haven't had so many parties this year but the few have been unusually enjoyable. Of course we were glad of the privilege to initiate our sister class, the freshmen.

We were disappointed that we didn't get to publish the customary "Monday Blues" but finally became reconciled.

We have had one especially "blue" day this year and that was when the class sweaters arrived. We were mighty proud of those blue sweaters with their large white numerals—"1933."

Our class has been represented this year in baseball, basketball, and debate. Now we are planning our class play, "I Will, I Won't," and with our talent, I'm sure it will be a huge success.

Yours until next year,

MARGARET E. DUTT.

Sophomore Class History

After passing through the process of entering High School and overlooking the slanderous remarks of our upper classmen, we became very important members of the Solar System in C.H.S.

We discovered our Sun, Miss Studer; Saturn, James Patterson; Jupiter, Robert Thompson; Neptune, Betty Myers; and Uranus, Russell Schmollinger.

The two brightest spots of the year were Friday, September 11, when we got a glimpse of Mercury at a party at Fulton's. A week later we found a perfect Venus in Peake's Woods.

We were aided greatly by the other planets. Mars gave the opportunity to Charles Arnold, Harry Zimmerman, Grant Ditch, Glenn Sonnedecker, Wayne Orr, Homer Miller, and Harold Henry to fight the opposing basketball teams. Charles Arnold and Margaret Ecker attended all meetings of the Athletic Association. Arnold, Zimmerman, Ditch, Miller, and Henry came forth to answer the call of Baseball, too. When Harry Zimmerman won the foul-shooting contest, he expanded almost sufficiently to spit in Sun Studer's face.

The constellations helped quite a little too. The Twins offered musical talents to James Patterson, Isabelle Buchanan, Margaret Ecker, Glen Sonnedecker, Christopher Cameron, Homer Miller, Charles Woodward, and Leonard Showalter. And did they make use of them?

Taurus saw that Homer Miller and Marjorie Wright simply must argue so gave them the honor of becoming debaters.

During the year the huge airship, Rittman High, left with us Harold and Robert Thompson. A shooting star, Emerson Metsker, shot in from the vicinity of Canton, and Lena Buchanan rocketed over from Wooster.

Life was dull during the eclipse of the moon. After two days of fear and work, life began to move on normally once more and soon those terrible mid-year exams were forgotten.

We all survived the moon's rainy period, although the first attacks of spring fever looked like they might prove fatal. Soon we faced a total eclipse of the sun. After the pandemonium subsided we saw light again and began to look forward to the time when we would grace the middle of the Creston High Solar System.

Freshmen Have Successful Year

Roy Amstutz upheld the class in Debate; he was one of the best debaters on the team. He also represented us in Oration. He came out fourth in the county and we are sure he will do better next year.

We were well represented in Baseball by Ira Kissinger, Lloyd Beal, Harvey Linder, and Arthur Stahl. In Basketball we were represented by Arthur Stahl, center; Harvey Linder, Lloyd Beal, Horace Francis, forwards; Ira Kissinger, captain; Melvin Rhodes and Ross Ditch, guards. Ira Kissinger had the honor of being on the High School Team.

The girls played a few games. Those who played were Margaret Sykes, center and captain; Annabell Huffman and Dorothy Strong, forwards; LaVonne Conkey and Margaret Ries, guards. The Freshman girls played the Sophomore girls and beat them by a high score. Margaret Sykes had the honor of being on the High School Girls' Team when they played the Alumni.

The Freshmen in Orchestra are Dorothy Strong, Bertha Garrison, and Lloyd Beal.

There are also a group of Freshmen in Glee Club, both boys and girls. After summing it all up we think the Freshmen have come out pretty well for being Green.

Sophomore Humor

Lucille Johnson: Everything is fair in love and war.
Flossie Krause: How about the blondes?

Miss Studer: How old would a person be who was born in 1890?
Jimmy P.: Man or woman?

Briggam S. (Beside wrecked airplane): But if we lie down here people will think we are the fliers and make a big fuss over us.
Russell S.: Yeah, but look what kind of fliers they'd think we are.

Irene P.: Is this chair a genuine antique?
Salesman: There is absolutely no chair in this store on which you could sit with any degree of comfort or safety.
"That's a new one on me," quoth LaVonne Benjamin, scratching her head.

PLACE—The interior of Christine Eliot's refreshment stand, on the State Road.

TIME—The present.

"I Will, I Won't," was presented by the Junior Class of Creston High School on April 8 and 9, 1932.

The Story

"Sound Your Horn," a farce comedy in three acts, was full of catchy comedy. Whether one has hitch-hiked or learned the highway from behind the wheel of the latest sport model eight, they'd delight in this play of Christine's wayside refreshment stand.

The play offered interesting contrasting roles in those of Mr. Angus and Beasley; the one suave and successful, the other blundering and inefficient. Homer Bird, who blundered adoringly after cute Etta furnished plenty of laughter. At times the irresistible Phyllis and Drusilla, drinking their way through the list of soda pop, touched the funny bone. But the real focus of interest was Christine who leased land for her refreshment stand from Mrs. Van Dyke's agent. When Mrs. Van Dyke, who refused to have anything so "low-brow" as a stand on her property, set out to repudiate the lease and disposses Christine, she found that she had a person to reckon with entirely different from the wealth-worshipping group to whom she'd been accustomed. Christine discovered unexpected allies in Deane and Theodore, niece and nephew of Mrs. Van Dyke. Romance and comedy work well to an end which proved just right. Christine proved to be a Vassar graduate and a business woman but not too business-like to fall in love with Ted, and Homer Bird got his Etta Lamb.

SYNOPSIS OF PLAY

Act I—Room in a girls' boarding school. A Friday night in mid-winter.
Act II—The same scene, a month later—afternoon.
Act III—The same scene, it is a continuation of Act II.

The Story

Lucille Owen (Joan Stevens) a young college girl, campused for low grades, wants to go to a house party. She discovers her cousin (Joan), her exact double, and gets her to come to the school for the week end. While there Joan sprained her ankle and was laid up for a month. Meanwhile Lucille goes to Florida and marries carney Underwood, Jr. Glad, a jealous girl, tries to block the budding romance between the young school doctor and his patient. The grandmother of Lucille and Joan comes to the school and discovers that Joan is an impostor.

Dr. King, the school doctor, has fallen in love with Joan. He wants to start a hospital for children and when Mrs. Stevens comes, he thinks his chances are ruined, but she gives him money to carry on his work and he and Joan are to be married.

Short Story

Elmer Johnson, a member of the Senior Class, wrote a short story which was to be sent in to the County Superintendent's office. As it has not been judged yet we cannot give results.

Declamation

Lillian Kirschner, a member of the Senior Class, represented Creston High School at the declamation contest held at Shreve, December 2, 1931.

She won third place and received a bronze medal for her excellent rendition. The name of her declamation was "When Ma Rogers Broke Loose."

Oration

Creston was represented at the Oratorical Contest by Roy Amstutz. It was held at Smithville, February 9, 1932.

Roy received fourth place by his splendid representation, the name of which was "The Big Brother." As Roy is only a Freshman we hope he will do better in the next three years.

Debate Team

Creston High School can rightfully feel proud of the people who represented her in debate. They took second place in the county.

The affirmative went to Chester the evening of March 18. They won unanimously. The negative team stayed at home and won over Fredericksburg by a unanimous vote. The next Friday night, the 25th, the negative team went to Smithville and the Smithville negative came to Creston. Both Creston teams defeated their opponents unanimously. They were then eligible to enter the final round on Tuesday evening, March 29.

Our Affirmative team traveled to Applecreek and was defeated by a 2 to 1 decision. The negative team stayed at home and defeated Chester by a vote of 2 to 1. They made a splendid showing under the faithful coaching of Miss McIlvaine.

Each member of each team did his part well and deserves special commendation. The affirmative side of the question was upheld by Chlora Clapp, Freeda Edington, Robert Myers, and Marjorie Wright as alternate; the negative by Lois Miller, Frances Gantz, Roy Amstutz, and Homer Miller as alternate.

The question debated was, Resolved: that the several states should enact legislation adopting a plan of Unemployment Insurance.

MOTTO—"Ad astra per aspera."

COLORS—Ruhrum et album.

The Latin II class organized as the Latin Club with a membership of fifteen. Betty Meyers was chosen president and Virginia Snyder secretary-treasurer. We voted to retain the old motto and colors.

In December an initiation party was held for the Latin I class, thus raising our membership to twenty-one. Later the club was entertained by the Latin I class at the school house. Under Miss Alsdorf's leadership we hope to come through our Latin in fine shape.

Les Hiboux de Nuit organized early in the fall; they elected the following officers: Lois Miller, president; Kathryn Benjamin, vice president; Mildred Snyder, secretary. We had our first party late in April, then we thoroughly initiated the French I class.

Orchestra

(2nd Row)—Emerson Rugh, Bertha Garrison, Catherine Fulton, Grace Grunder, Robert Meyers, Lillian Kirschner, Eleanor Giffen, Margaret Ecker, Lloyd Beal, Howard Murray.

The Creston High Orchestra began practicing the first week of school under the direction of our former music instructor, Mr. Young. The orchestra has furnished music for various entertainments, such as Junior-Senior class plays and Debate. The High School and community can well be proud of this fine group of musicians and the type of music they play. Their success has been due to the faithful instruction of Mr. Harry Young and to the regular practices every Thursday.

Parent-Teacher Association

At the last meeting of the Parent Teacher Association in the spring of 1931, it was decided to serve hot lunches the next school year. A committee consisting of Mrs. Frank Buchanan, Mrs. Floyd Myers, Mrs. Floyd Benjamin, Mrs. Boor, and Mrs. Ed Bowman was chosen. During the summer they made visits to different schools where lunches were served in the past and secured all the information possible.

The first meeting of the P. T. A. of the present school year was held in October. At this meeting the committee and the officers of the P. T. A. decided to start the hot lunches as soon as arrangements could be made. With the treasury of the association practically empty and a lot of equipment needed, a serious problem confronted them. The Canaan Grange Lyceum Play was given for the benefit of the P. T. A. and the Cemetery Association. With the funds received from this play as much needed equipment as possible was purchased. Hot lunches were started November 23, 1931. The cafeteria plan of serving was chosen which proved to be the most desirable. Only enough profit to pay for the cost of preparation was added to the cost of the material. Mrs. Ruby Earl was hired to act as chief cook. Many mothers have taken their turn in the kitchen in helping Mrs. Earl, thus reducing the cost of preparation to a minimum. Mrs. Earl has proved herself very desirable and efficient. Her menus have been carefully planned and prepared.

The association decided instead of serving free milk to the undernourished children, as was done last year, to serve free lunches to the needy children. With the aid received from different individuals and church organizations free lunches were started shortly after the holiday vacation. The faculty put on a play, "The Mystery of the Third Gable," the proceeds of which were given to the free lunch fund. A careful survey was made and lunches were served to about twenty children.

The P. T. A. wishes to thank all those who in various ways have given their aid and support to make the serving of hot lunches a success. It is the plan of the association to serve lunches again next year. They hope to be better equipped and render more efficient service.

"I understand you can't meet your creditors."

"I don't particularly want to."

Mrs. Mann: "What on earth are you applauding that last singer for? I think she is terrible."

Mrs. Ladd: "I know, but I like her gown and I want to see it again."

Perhaps the reason we do not think better of some people is because they already think so well of themselves.

Being a saleslady in the millinery department one needs to be tactful. A saleslady said to a customer: "Now this hat makes you look ten years younger, Madam."

Madam: "And when I take it off I shall look ten years older?"

Master: "We must widen this garage door."

Chauffeur: "But it is wide enough sir. A truck could easily get through."

Master: "Yes, I know, but my wife got her driving license yesterday."

Sue and her friend Shirley went to the races and Sue bet ten dollars on a horse named "Silk Stocking." The horse was a favorite and did fairly well in the first two heats, but in the third, the horse refused to run. Shirley tried to console Sue for her loss and was much surprised to hear her reply cheerfully: "Why, Shirley, it was worth ten dollars to see a silk stocking that didn't run."

"Did you make the debating team?"

"N-n-no, they s-s-said I w-w-wasn't t-t-tall enough."

"You have admitted Smith to your club? But he is such a bore."

"Yes; we wanted somebody to grumble about."

"Well, Bobby, what do you think of your new teacher?"

"Oh, he is not bad in himself, but one can't rely on what he says."

"How is that?"

"First he said 'two and two make four,' and then he said 'three and one make four'."

A patient in a hospital awoke after an operation and found the blinds of the room drawn. "Why are those blinds down, doctor?" he asked.

"Well," said the physician, "there's a fire burning across the alley and I didn't want you to wake up and think the operation had been a failure?"

Kitty: "Come in and see our new baby."
Teacher: "Thank you, but I will wait until your mother is better."
Kitty: "You needn't be afraid; it's not catching."

Jimmy giggled when the teacher read the story of a man who swam a river three times before breakfast.

"You do not doubt that a trained swimmer could do that, do you?" asked the teacher.

"No, sir," replied Jimmy, "but I wonder why he didn't make it four times, and get back to the side where his clothes were."

Teacher: "Why Jimmy, have you forgotten your pencils again? What would you think of a soldier going to war without a gun?"
Jimmy: "I'd think he was an officer."

If you see a man waiting in front of the post office, he's a sophomore. He's waiting for some freshman to come along and push the revolving door for him.

An Irishman visiting a friend in the hospital began to take an interest in the other patients. "What are you in here for?" he asked one.

"I've got tonsillitis and I've got to have my tonsils cut out," was the answer.

"And you?" he asked another.

"I've got blood poisoning in my right arm, and they're going to cut it off," he replied.

"Begorra!" said Pat, in horror, "this ain't no place for me. I've got a cold in my head."
